

Jermann

Old IT is not as good as old wine: Jermann wineries choose a new Syneto IT solution

Overview

Company: Jermann

Location: Italy

The Challenge

- consolidate IT infrastructure;
- ensure data protection;
- find a simple and efficient solution.

The Solution

- consolidate IT with a solution that covers all IT needs;
- data protection with instant automatic backups;
- ease of use with one-click management.

Customer Profile

The Jermann family has been producing high-quality wine since 1881 when the great-great-great-grandfather Anton Jermann moved to Farra d'Isonzo.

Currently the Jermann estate extends over 200 hectares: 170 hectares of vineyards and 20 hectares of arable land. They produce wines such as Vintage Tunina, Dreams, and Red Angel, which are well recognized worldwide. Jermann is a company that is in touch with the world on a daily basis, but also focuses a lot of its attention on the concrete things that make a wine great.

The Challenge

Jermann was looking for a new solution that would help them consolidate their IT, while at the same time offering simplicity and ease of management.

The company manages a high amount of data that is vital for ensuring smooth and efficient business operations. Data regarding bottling, tracking, and shipping is particularly important, as each bottle of wine is marked and can be traced to make sure any unfortunate nonconformities are fixed. Needless to say, the company wanted to protect this data from any threats. This includes potential ransomware attacks – a constant threat to businesses in recent years.

The Solution

Jermann has chosen a Syneto solution that now offers data security, but also reliable Disaster Recovery. Should a negative incident occur, the data can be easily recovered.

In addition to product data, the company is protecting customer data, documents regarding commercial management, but also product and event images/videos. All of these are important for future business development.

The new solution has proven to be easy to deploy and integrate with existing resources. It has also offered a fair price for the benefits it offers. The company was so satisfied with the new solution that, after the initial purchase, it has added a second Syneto product that now completes the consolidation of some old physical servers.

"Syneto has offered us a simple solution that guarantees data security. This is very important because today if you lose your <<knowledge>>, which is data, you lose your <<identity>>!" - Andrea Parenzan - Administrative Director, Jermann
